

I was twelve.

My folks were newly separated, and dad had moved into a shitbox condo a few miles away.

The whole situation creeped out my brothers, who looked for any excuse to stay somewhere else on weekends.