

I know how it sounds, but I was smitten, on impact.

With hero and villain.

Never thought of Schwarzenegger as a love interest.

Aww, the Terminator just wanted Sarah Connor's heart.

Sure, only after it had been yanked out of her throat... but he was a creature of passion and purpose, just like Kyle Reese.

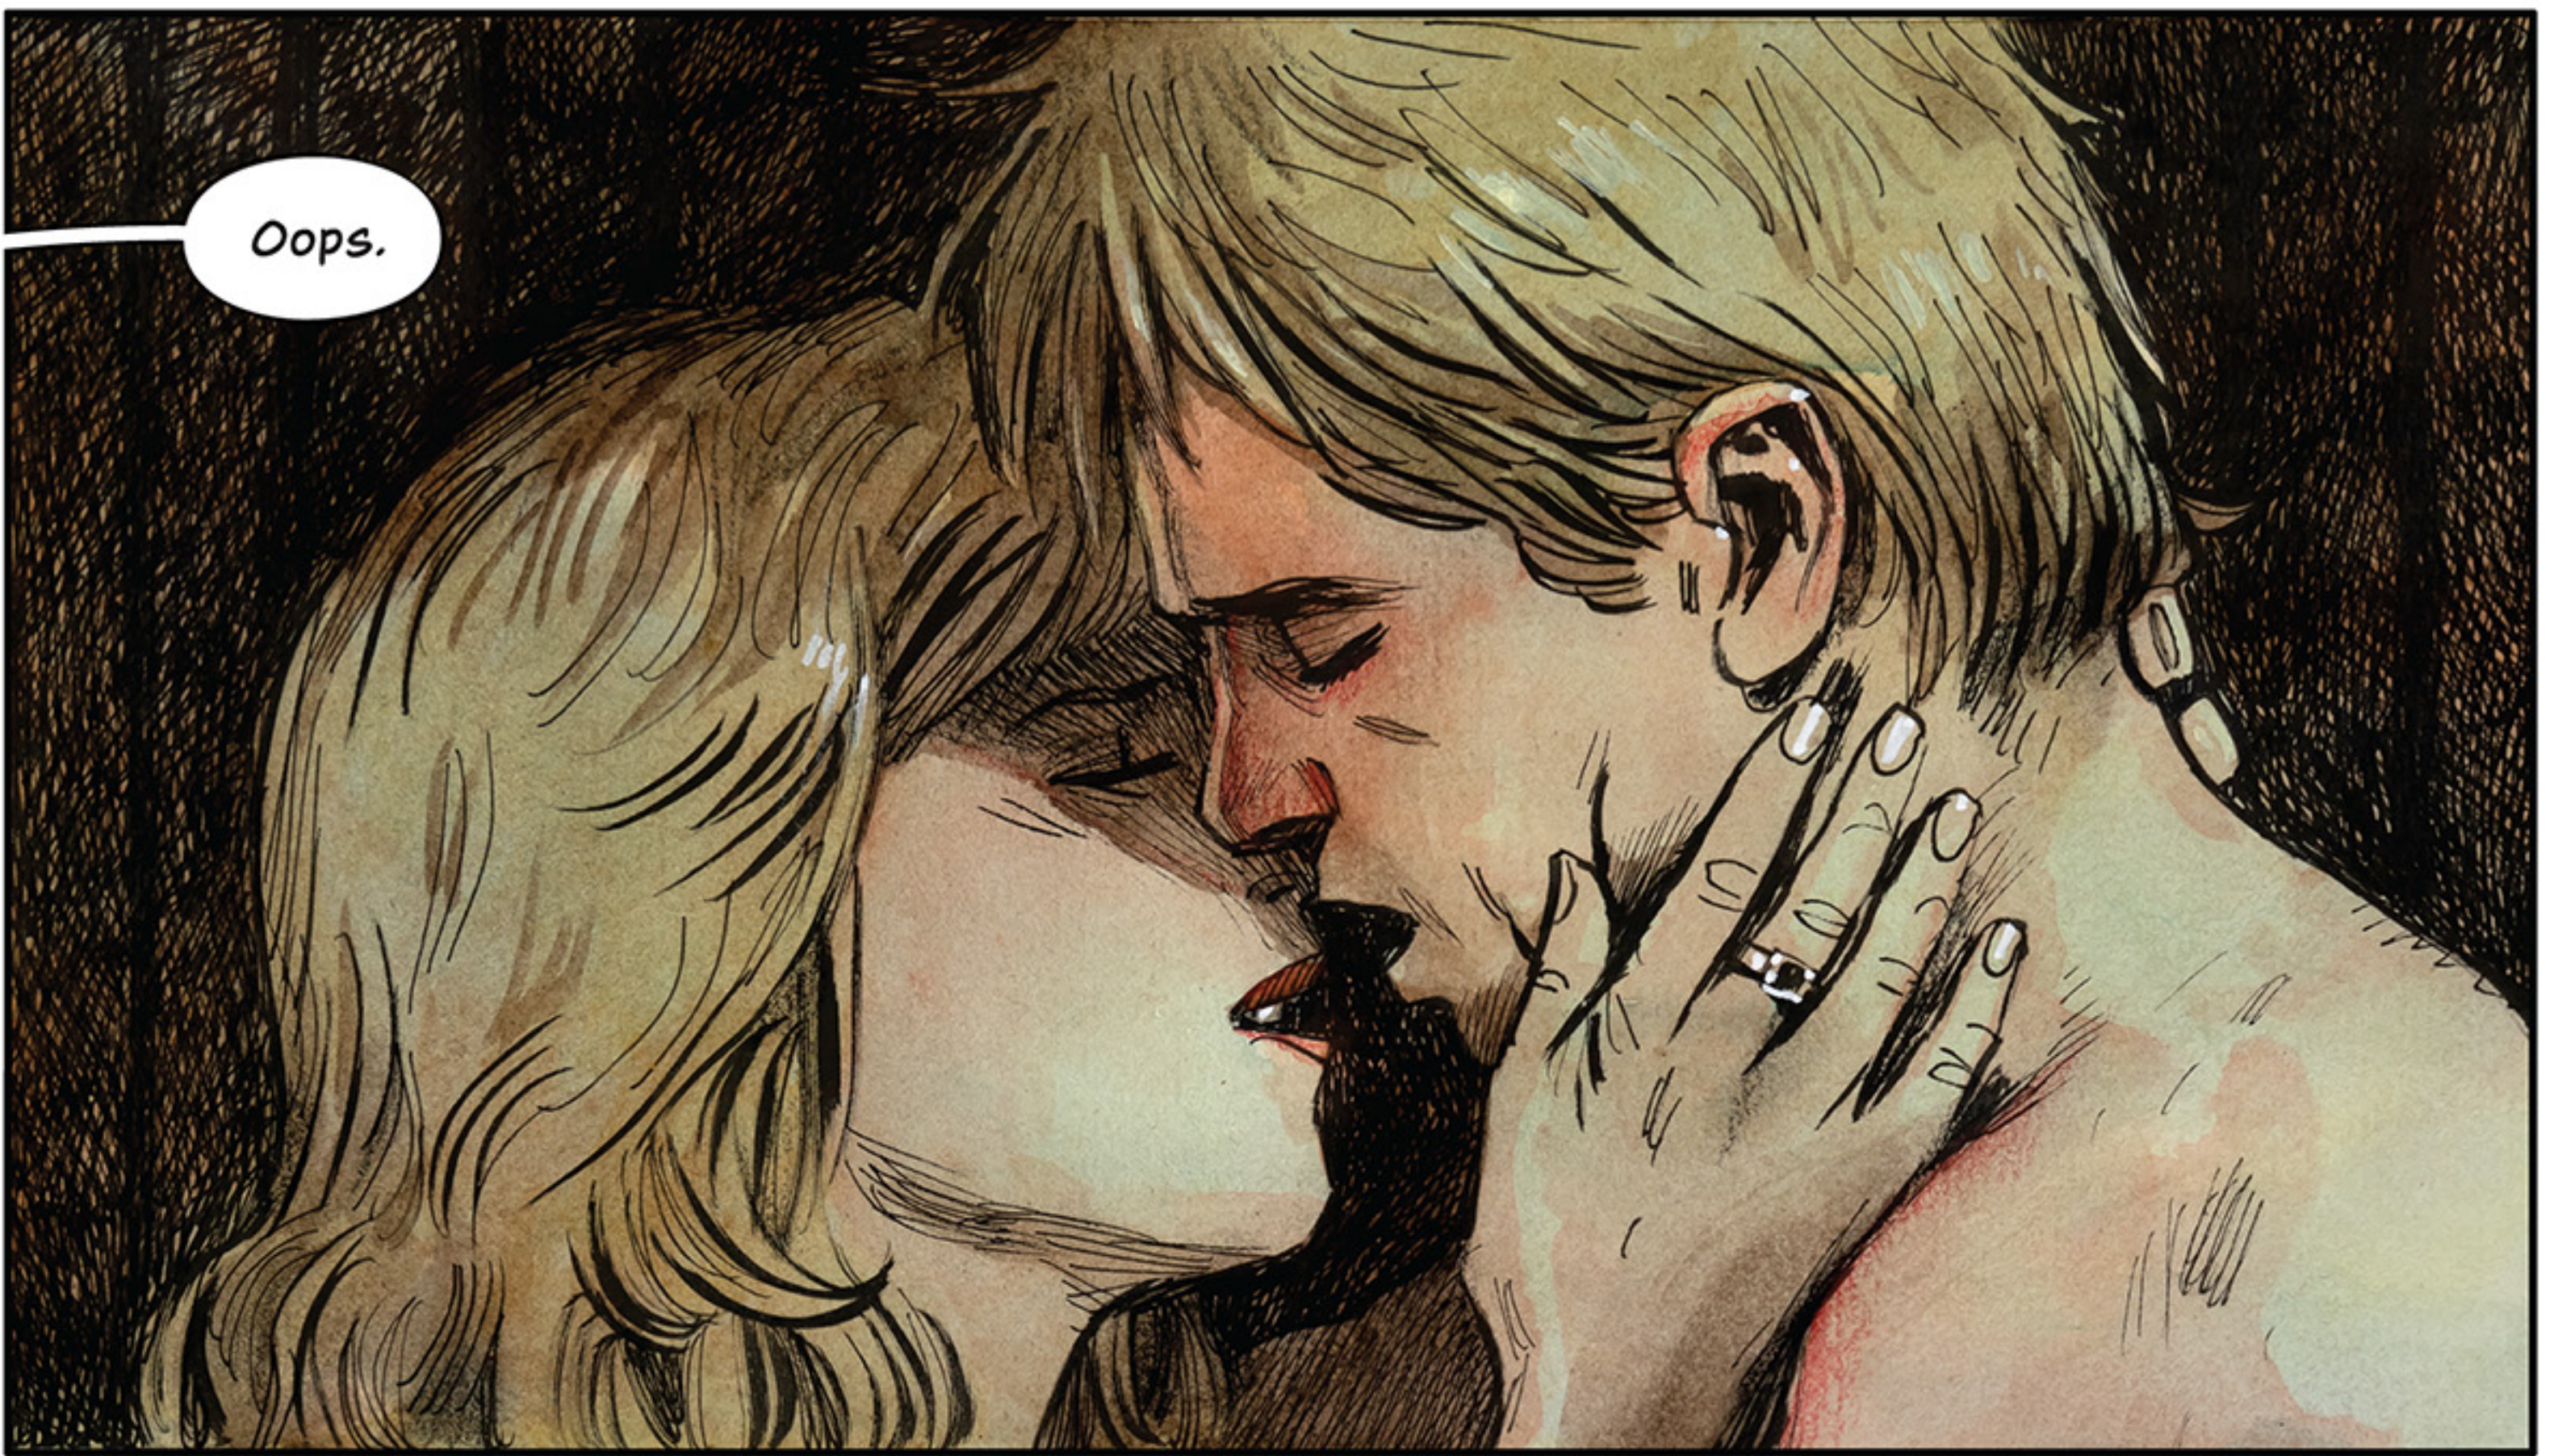

That was my boy Biehn's character, flip side of the same coin.

A thoughtful, gentle virgin who loved the woman he'd been sent to save long before he'd even met her.

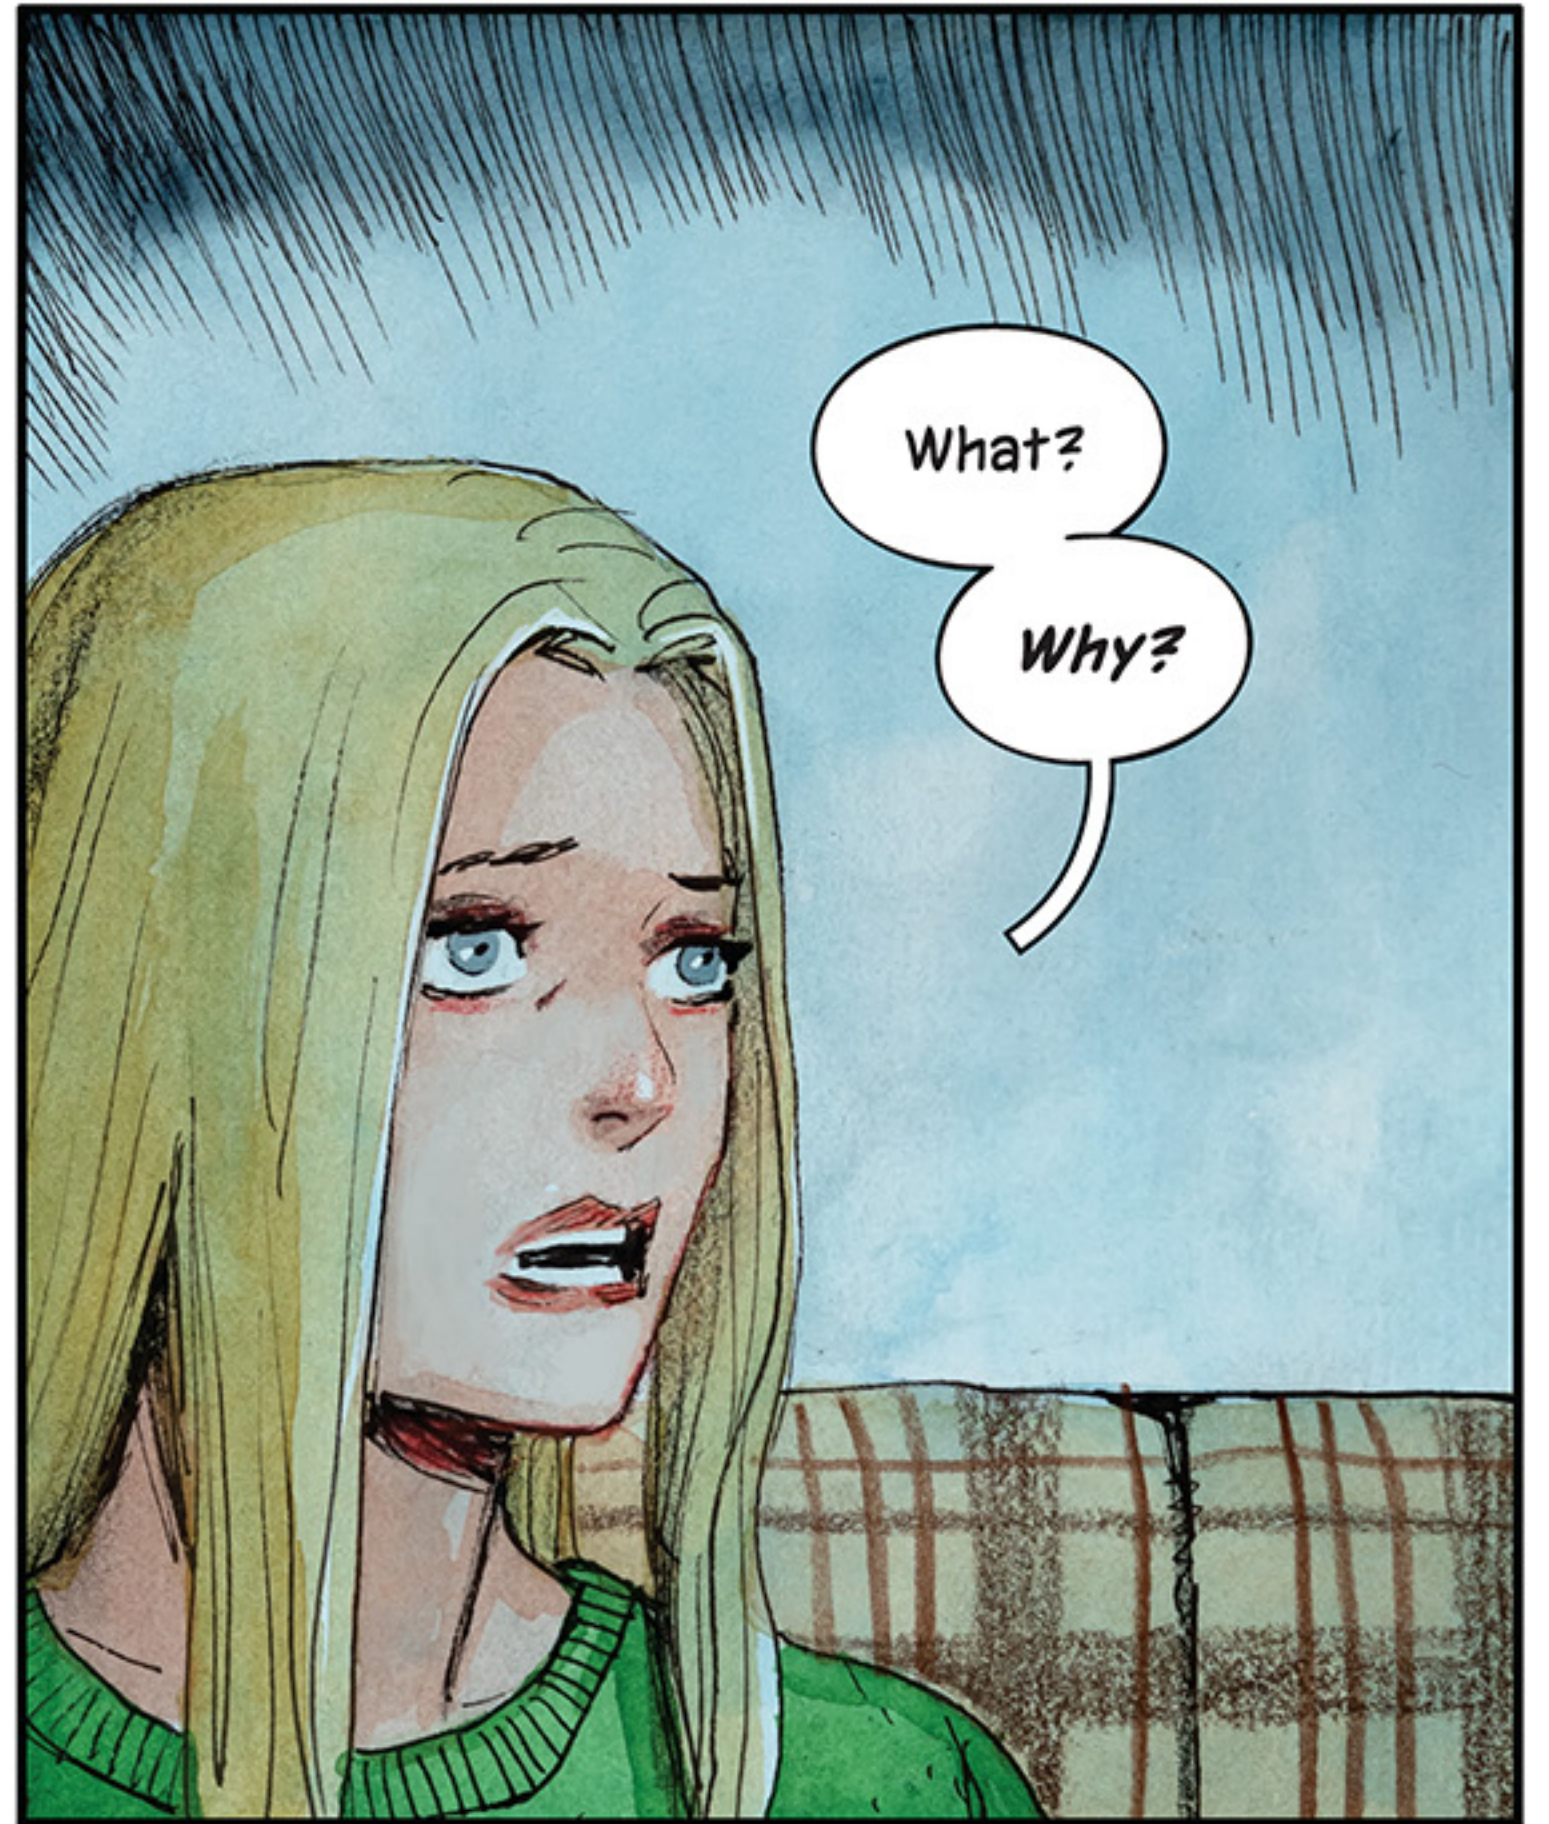

But right when he and Sarah were about to finally consummate their all-important relationship... the unthinkable happened.

Oops.

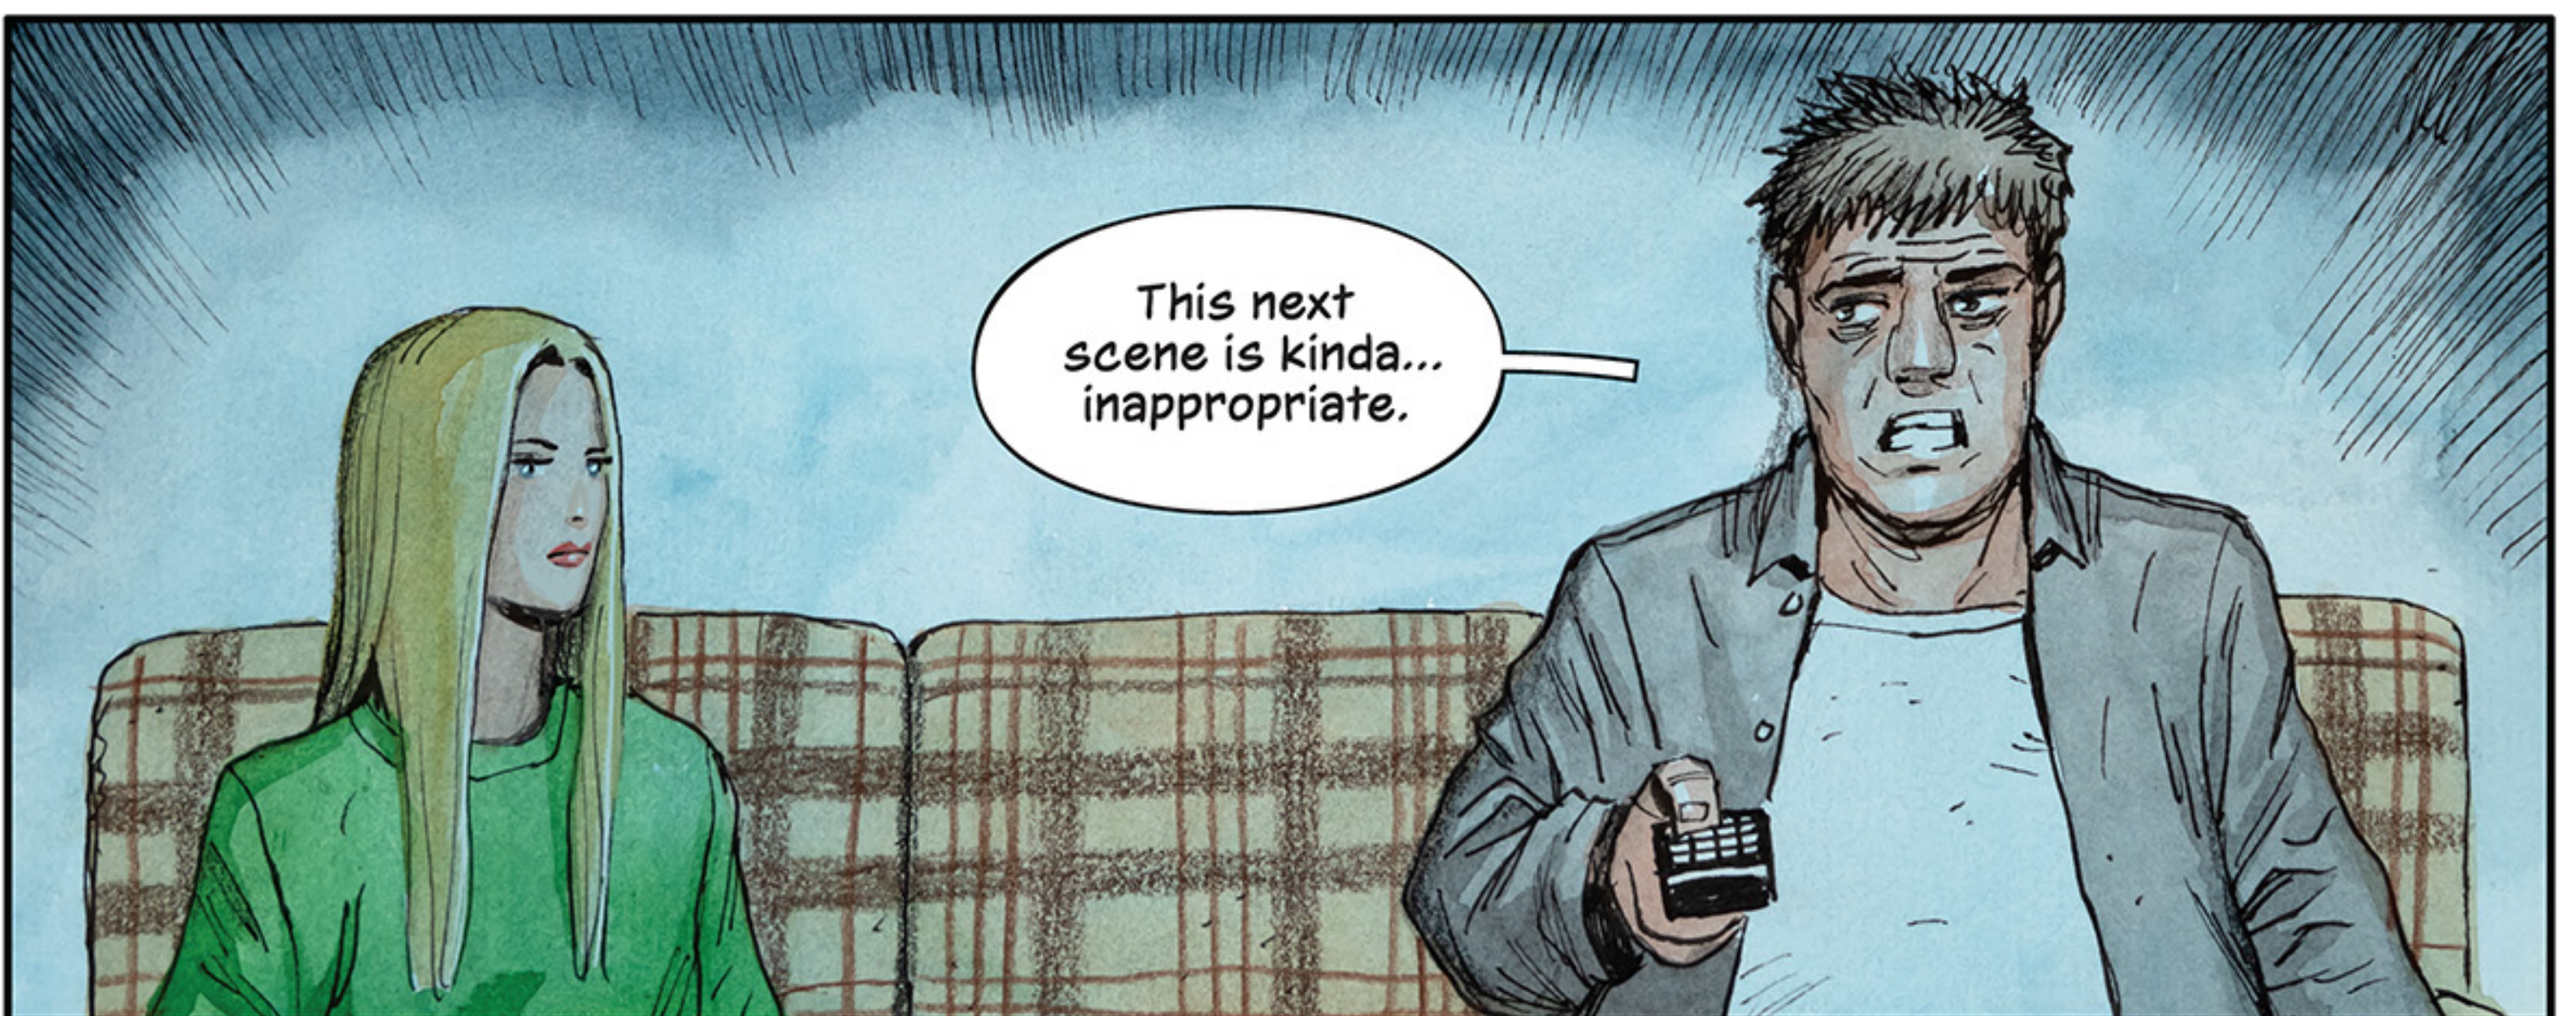

Hand me the clicker, would you?

What?

Why?

This next scene is kinda... inappropriate.